BACKGROUND

Agriculture has been the prime sector of the Nepalese economy. The agricultural development policy and program issues related to natural resources, investment, subsidy/ taxes, public/ private services, marketing and pricing, trade and agro-industries are of paramount importance for economic growth and people's welfare. So Nepal Agricultural Economics Society (NAES), established in year 2005, has taken to the onus to pursue these issues, and suggest solutions to the stakeholders. NAES is dedicated to serve on skills and knowledge for agricultural advancement, and arranges for exchange of views.

OBJECTIVES

The main objectives NAES are to:

1. Enhance co-operation among the agricultural economists, and agricultural scientists, enhance and protect their professional rights and welfare;
2. Assess the agricultural policies, development status and problems of farmers and other stakeholders for suggesting innovative solutions to all these concerned;
3. Suggest to the public and the private agencies on marketing system, quality and prices of agricultural inputs and products for the welfare of producers, entrepreneurs and consumers;
4. Provide research and consultative services to institutions and individuals;
5. Enable members to carry out subject-related consultations and services; and
6. Support and execute agricultural research on technical, social and economic aspects.

MAIN ACTIVITIES

NAES carries out the following activities:

1. Arrange offices, fund and personnel to carryout different activities of the Society;
2. Organize conferences, seminars, workshops, trainings, talk programs and interactions among the members and related professionals;
3. Carryout research and consultancy services in the field of agricultural economics and allied aspects;
4. Arrange training programs for the members on new developments in the field;
5. Network with other organizations for professional development and welfare;
6. Regularly publish Journal and other occasional / issue papers;
7. Raise membership and funds;
8. Maintain library and other resource centers;
9. Mobilize funds, get audit and maintain transparency; and
10. Conduct other works to fulfill the Society's objectives.

MEMBERSHIP

The individuals who have M. Sc. in agricultural economics or at least B. Sc. Ag (with major in agricultural economics) or M. A. (economics or statistics) with three years of experience in agricultural economics are eligible to apply for NAES membership. NAES has the following types of membership:

1. Regular Membership;
2. Life Members;
3. Associate Membership (Non-resident Nepalese in agro-economic studies, teachings and businesses);
